Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Present advice on solving technical problems in a work context and appropriate for the interlocutor.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about experiences I've had.
- I can exchange opinions.
- I can talk about jobs and work.

Ask your partner:

- What type of arrangements do you need to make before signing a deal?
- What do you do after the deal has been sealed?

Let's Explore!

Has the deal been sealed? What does Farmani have to fill in?

* To "fill in" mean to write all the necessary information on an official document.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Farmani: Have you had a chance to talk to Janet?
- Miranda: Yes. After your introductory offer, I must say we are ready to seal the deal. Would you be able to send Janet a copy before we sign off?
- Farmani: Certainly. I could be wrong but you've already seen the outline. I'll just fill in the amounts we've settled on.
- Miranda: Just as a reminder, I think we should jot a line about the training and personnel arrangements which we haven't discussed.
- Farmani: Indeed, I'll put a note here. I was wondering if you need to see any money upfront.
- Miranda: I could let Janet get back to you on that.
- Farmani: I understand that you have sent a man down to South America.
- Miranda: Yes. This is the best method to do in depth market research, if you ask me. We also wanted to mention to you that Ferdinand will be staging the main PR events. We have agreed to provide media coverage for Holly's with simultaneous events that he will stage both in America and Brazil.
- Farmani: Ha! You've waited until now to inform me! I am experiencing firsthand why Polygon has a reputation for leadership in the market. To be honest, it has certainly been a pleasure doing business with you.
- Miranda: Thank you for giving us the opportunity to work with you. I foresee a long-lasting partnership.

Let's Practice!

Talking About Experiences: Past Simple and Present Perfect

In English, you use the Past Simple and Present Perfect tenses to talk about experiences.

You use the Present Perfect tense to talk about a past action or an action that began in the past that is connected to the present in some way.

You use the Past Simple tense to talk about different kinds of past events: short, quickly finished actions, longer situations and repeated events.

You can use the Present Perfect tense to talk about experience. When you use the Present Perfect tense, you think about the past and present together. There is some connection between what happened in the past and now.

- Use the Present Perfect to talk about an action that happened in the past but you do not know when it happened.

Examples:

We've settled on a final price.

It's been a pleasure doing business with you.

We have sent one of your staff to South America.

- Use the Present Perfect to talk about something that happened in the past but has a present result.

Examples:

You've waited until now to tell me this!

We've agreed to provide media coverage for the event.

- Use the Present Perfect to talk about things that happened sooner than expected.

Example:

I could be wrong but I think you've already seen the details.

Usually, when you use the Simple Past tense, the time of the finished action is clear from the context or explicitly mentioned in the sentence.

Example:

We agreed to provide media coverage for the fashion show next week.

Exchanging Opinions

Conversations are far more interesting when people interact during the conversation. It is important to ask for others' opinions on a subject as well as giving your own. Here are some ways you can exchange opinions.

Giving Opinions

When you give opinions, make your opinions less forceful by using neutral statements:

- I could ... (+ verb)
- This/That was ... (+ adjective + noun)
- I think ... (+ clause)
- I must say I ... (+ verb phrase)
- To be honest ... (+ clause)
- (clause) ... if you ask me.
- I could be wrong, but ... (+ clause)
- I felt that ... (+ clause)

Examples:

- I must say we are ready to close the deal.
- I could ask her to get back to you on that matter.
