

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

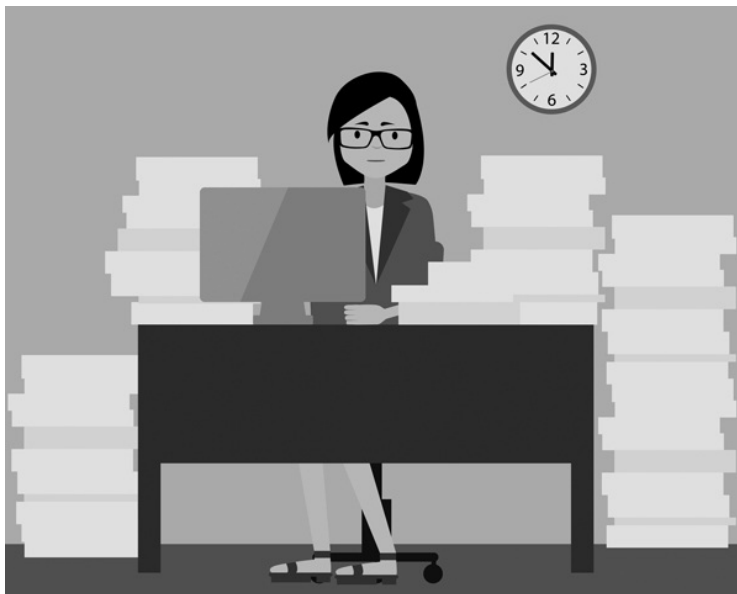

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Is there a solution to this problem?

Learning Outcome

Use expressions about relationships and feelings in a range of social and work contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can offer solutions.
- I can discuss how to deal with problems.
- I can talk about jobs and work.

Ask your partner:

- When was the last time you had a problem at school or work?
- How did you deal with it?

Let's Explore!

Why is Miranda sending Janet a dozen e-mails?

* "A dozen" means twelve, but is often used to exaggerate an inspecific, large amount.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Subject: Trouble with Domain Name

Hello Janet,

We've come across a sudden obstacle: WearHollys.com is already in use. All I know is that the company is small and privately owned by a Holly who naturally wants to keep her name. She only went online last year and her sales are minimal: grossing less than $10,000 a year. What would you suggest I do? Should I offer to buy the name?

Miranda

RE: Trouble with Domain Name

Hi Miranda,

This can be tricky because we don't know much about the owner. If I were you I would ask what she'd be willing to take. You don't want to look ridiculous by offering too high or too low.

Janet

Janet: Hello?

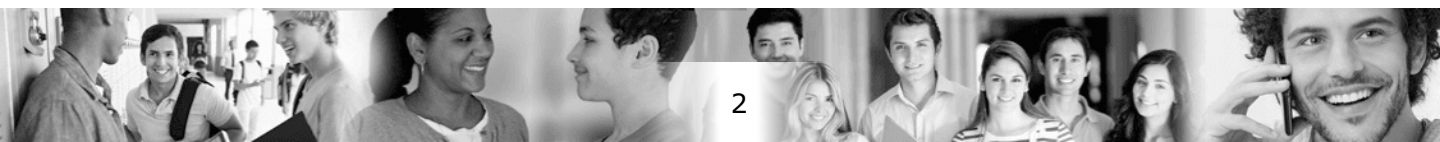

Miranda: Hi Janet. Sorry to bother you. It's Miranda here. I just didn't want to send you a dozen e-mails.

Janet: No problem. Is this about the domain name?

Miranda: Yes. It's owned by an older woman. She asked for $5000! That's not enough! Should I offer her something we'd consider reasonable?

Janet: Of course! We ought to give her a year's worth of sales. Why don't you suggest doubling her demanded price? We shouldn't make a low offer. We should come off generous. We ought to acknowledge her effort per annum.

Miranda: Splendid! I'll let you know how it goes.

Let's Practice!

Polygon has an obstacle* to deal with. What is it?

* An "obstacle" is a problem preventing progress.

Instructions: Read the e-mails. Underline all the sentences that talk about dealing with a problem. Read the e-mails aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. Subject: Trouble with Domain Name

Hello Janet,

We've come across a sudden obstacle: WearHollys.com is already in use. This is a problem for us because we don't have enough knowledge. All I know is that the company is small and privately owned by a Holly who naturally wants to keep her name. What would you suggest I do? Should I offer to buy the name?

Miranda

2. Re: Trouble with Domain Name

Hi Miranda,

This can be tricky because we don't know much about the owner. If I were you I would ask what she'd be willing to take. You don't want to look ridiculous by offering too high or too low.

Janet

3. Re: Re: Trouble with Domain Name

Hello Janet,

She's asked for $5000! That's not enough! Should I offer her something we'd consider reasonable?

Miranda

Let's Practice!

What does Janet advise Miranda to do?

Instructions: Read through the dialogue. Select and write the corresponding words to correctly complete the sentences.

1 were me were we were you	2 would ought to should	3 couldn't want don't want shouldn't want	4 When don't you Why don't you How don't you	5 shouldn't couldn't don't
	6 couldn't ought should	7 want to ought to have to	8 How about Couldn't you Why don't

If I 1. _____, I 2. _____ ask what she was willing to take.

You 3. _____ to look ridiculous by offering too high or too low.

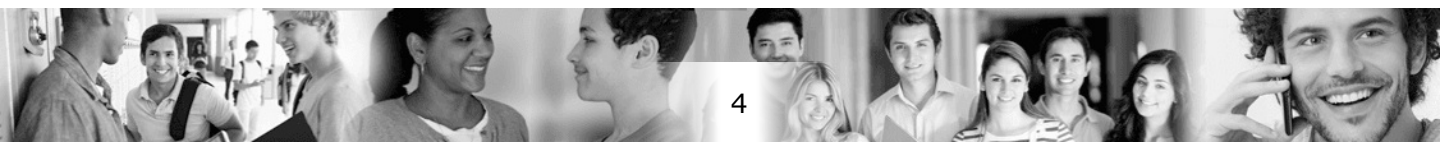

4. _____ suggest doubling her demanded price?

We 5. _____ make a low offer.

We 6. _____ come off generous.

We 7. _____ acknowledge her effort.

8. _____ offering her something more reasonable?

Extension Activity

Let's deal with problems!

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Think of 2–3 problems you are having at the office or in the classroom.
- Describe the problems in detail (acknowledge and explain them) to your partner.
- Your partner will give you advice on how to deal with the problems.
- Choose the best piece of advice for each problem.
- When you are finished, switch roles.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I identify problems.

☐ ☐

I describe and discuss how to deal with the problems.

☐ ☐

I can offer and select the best advice.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- minimal (adjective): the smallest amount possible
e.g. She only went online last year and sales are minimal.
- to gross (verb): to make or earn before any deductions such as taxes have been removed e.g. Records show she is grossing less than $10,000 a year.
- domain name (noun): an address on the internet
e.g. The domain name is already owned by an older woman.
- demanded price (expression): an amount of money that is asked for e.g. We should double her demanded price.
- per annum (adverb): for each year
e.g. We ought to acknowledge her effort per annum.

Learning Points

Giving Suggestions

In the workplace, you will often be requested to offer your two cents. There are several ways to give suggestions.

Here are four ways to give advice:

- Use a modal verb

You should be generous and make a good offer.

You could be generous and make a good offer.

You ought to be generous and make a good offer.

NOTE: Should and ought to are stronger than could

- Use a question

Why don't you offer something reasonable?*

How about offering something more reasonable?*

- Put yourself in the person's shoes

If I were you, I would offer something more reasonable.*

- Use negative forms

You don't want to look cheap by making a low offer.*

You shouldn't make a low offer.*

Learning Points

Dealing with Problems

On a daily basis, we are faced with unpleasant situations. Although it is tempting to ignore them, it is far better to deal with problems as they arise.

Here are three ways to deal with problems:

- Acknowledging the problem

Use the Present Perfect tense to acknowledge the existence of a problem

I've come across a critical issue: the website is already in use.

- Asking for help

Use modal verbs to ask for help dealing with a problem

Should I offer them something?*

What would you suggest I do in a situation like this?

- Explaining the problem

Use the Present Simple tense to explain a problem and connect it using an adverb clause with "because"

This is a problem for us because we don't have enough knowledge.

This can be a tricky situation because we don't know the owner of the website.

